The Institute for Advanced Training – Training and development

The Institute for Advanced Training (Kirkon koulutuskeskus, KK) is an expert unit for training and development maintained by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Finland.

The institute supports the basic task of the parishes.

Do you want to improve your skills? – KK provides training

The Institute supports and develops the professional skills of church and parish employees by providing training in the following areas:

- pastoral qualifications
- Biblical theology
- liturgical theology
- church music
- pastoral care
- diaconia and social work
- Christian education
- supervision training
- management and consultant training

Training for the needs of parish work – KK coordinates

The Institute publishes an annual training calendar for church staff. The goal is to provide extensive and inexpensive training of high quality to support the employees' professional skills and the needs of church work. The training is carried out in co-operation with the dioceses, training institutions and organisations as well as the units of the office of the Church Council.

Involved in the change? – KK develops

The employees of the Institute are specialists in their field whose expertise and networks also serve the dioceses and parishes in consulting and development work.

Decisions in a peaceful environment – KK is a meeting venue

Suitable premises and a skilled staff allow you to fully concentrate on the main thing.

After a day full of interaction, the attendees may retire to their single rooms for privacy.

A meeting in the cultural landscape of the lake Tuusulanjärvi will give space and perspective for your own thoughts

The Institute is located by the main railroad, half an hour by train from Helsinki and Riihimäki and twenty kilometres from the airport. The bus from Helsinki stops right by the Institute.
